

City Liberals Vote Against Co-Operation

Members of the executive committee of the City Liberals met last night to discuss a report had been drawn up by the officers, for submission to the executive group.

The report reads as follows:

"At a meeting of the officers of the association held on the 23rd day of June, 1944, at which all but three of the officers were present, the question of immediate activities was considered, and it was decided that a meeting of the full executive should be called for Wednesday, June 29th, 1944, and that in view of the press reports and other information in the hands of the officers it appeared likely that an election might be called within a reasonably short time, the executive should recommend to you a course of procedure to be followed.

ALTY COALITION

It was unanimously agreed that they should recommend to you that there should be no coalition or union with any other party for the purpose of the next election and that the Liberal Association should now proceed to nominate a chairman of the convention committee with power to select personnel thereat, and that in due course a convention should be held to select a number of candidates to represent the number of Edmonton seats under the Liberal banner.

"And it was the consensus of the opinion that the number of seats should be limited to such as might reasonably expect to exist, having regard to the existence of proportional representation system in this constituency, namely, two or three, and your officers, respectively submit this recommendation to you for your consideration."

Adoption of the report was moved by Charles H. Grant, K.C., secretary, and seconded by Nellie Buchanan, K.C.

A. J. McCormack opened discussion by asking if any communications had been received from the Independent party.

Mr. Grant replied several communications had been received, asking for the appointment of a committee to discuss the matter of joint co-operation. The letters were ordered to be filed.

asked if its passage would preclude nomination of a slate to which Tories could nominate, such as a composite slate.

Mr. Grant: "It would preclude going in with other parties."

If the report was adopted, it would put a convention on the basis of a purely Liberal convention, and name a convention chairman, Mr. Grant remarked.

A motion to adopt the officers' report calling for a Liberal party convention was then carried unanimously.

It was decided that the association president should name a convention chairman and form a planning committee. Mr. Parquin, Mr. Buchanan and Mr. Grant all decided nomination to the chairmanship. The latter moved a resolution calling for study by the committee of results of the last provincial general election held in Edmonton, and for arguments to be made for a convention of 300 persons.

CO-OPERATION ASKED

Mr. McCormack said the Independent party had asked for co-operation. It would be in favor of this plan," he said. "But a section of the Independents might contribute two candidates to a slate of five, and we might make an agreement with them to complete a slate of not more than five."

"I'm afraid that if we go and nominate two or three, we are going to have a lot of tail-end voting that's going to be lost. If we go together, we would have some hope of success."

"I don't think we need more than two candidates. If we nominate two, we could tell the Independents we will give two candidates, and we will be co-operating and doing most to elect members who are opposed to this government."

"I don't suggest that the Liberals should lose their identity as a party, but that we should co-operate to get strength."

FAILURE TO DISAGREE

Mr. Grant: "I'm opposed to putting candidates on a 'Citizens' Slate'—there's no disgrace in failure. We have no leader, and could not form a government. It's not the fault of Edmonton Liberals that we have no leader."

"The Liberals represent something. The Independents don't represent anything. 'The mortgage companies'."

Mr. Grant: "I don't think that either. The Independents are a misguided movement."

"Liberals represent a kind of principle, and that is what we want. Let us stand under our own colors, and take a licking if we have to."

"If we are going to hold a convention, have we the executive members, the right to make a decision as to the number of candidates chosen?" It was asked.

UP TO CONVENTION

It was pointed out that this would be a matter for the convention to decide.

If O. Parquin said there was reasonable hope of electing two candidates, and three, if there was a decided swing to Liberals. "If we nominate more, we are just setting up men to be defeated," he said.

FINNISH CABINET

Crisis Looming

By ROBERT STURDEVANT
STOCKHOLM, June 29.—(AP)—Finland's dominant Social Democratic party has ordered its five cabinet ministers, including Prime Minister Yrjö Tanner, withdrawn from the Rist-Lankomies government which plunged Finland into full collaboration with Germany and opened the doors of southern Finland to Nazi troops.

The formal withdrawal is scheduled for a meeting of parliament today but after spending five tense days in Helsinki it is the impression the action may yet be withheld as a result of the wider expressed fear of many Finns that Tanner's resignation might precipitate a collapse of the morale of Finnish troops at the front.

The Progressive party and the Swedish People's party also expressed no confidence in the government in party caucuses.

One Progress party member may withdraw from the cabinet.

Briton Now Top Ace in War

LONDON, June 29.—(CP)—Wing Cmdr Johnny Johnson, British Spitfire pilot, shot down two German MiGs over Normandy yesterday by bringing his air victories to 12, making him the top Allied fighter ace still flying. Johnson leads a Canadian wing operating from a French base. His double killing equals the record of Group Capt. Salim Mait, South African ace who now is on ground duty.

Godbout Calls Quebec Election For August 18th

where, and we say Mr. Duplessis (Union Nationale leader) or any other leader to meet in this ground without covering himself with shame."

"If Mr. Duplessis endeavors to avoid the provincial field," he said, "it is because he is entirely defenceless there and because his political past is not one of the subjects he likes to discuss in public."

CITES 'REAL REASONS'

"But the true reason for his desperate anxiety to finish the question of the day is this—he wishes our people to forget the substantial measures we have just adopted for their liberation and, most of all, the mortal blow we have dealt to the hydro electric trust in expropriating Montreal in the hydro power."

"During the several years I have had the honor of administering the government in the province," he said, "I have acquired a contempt for bluffers which I would like to see shared by all those who have a lofty conception of the role of a politician."

"The events which have marked our national life since 1939—these events which have marked an emotional disturbance in our national life—these events which have marked a demagogic immediately believed in the hour had come to the end of the road. They were ready to feed on our stupidities, that they would never again find a more favorable psychological moment to spread their falsehoods."

'PAINFUL BUT IMPERATIVE'

Premier Godbout said he felt the necessity "painful but imperative" of condemning Senator T. D. Bouchard "because he displayed a fanaticism as redoubtable as that of the school he claims to fight."

Mr. Godbout was commenting on Senator Bouchard's address in the Senate last week in which he said the Order of Jacques Cartier was stirring up strife between French and English-speaking Canadians.

"I condemn and repudiate every thing that recalls fanaticism whether it is near or far, no matter what it is or from where it comes," Mr. Godbout said.

ELECTED IN 1939

The Liberal government of Premier Godbout came into power in the general elections of Oct. 25, 1939, replacing the Union Nationale administration of Maurice Duplessis.

The Union Nationale became the official opposition at that time, with 15 seats against 60 for the Liberals. One Nationalist and one Independent completed the 65-seat house.

The fifth session of the 21st legislature was prorogued June 22. The general elections of 1944 were held on June 21, 1944, and the distribution bill passed at the last session. The bill created two entirely new seats, and re-created three others which had been abolished in a redistribution of the Union Nationale region.

Eight by-elections were held during the session of the 21st legislature. All of them for seats that were originally Liberal. Liberals were returned in six of them, and one Nationalist candidate in the other.

Two by-elections were held for the opposition. Eight seats were represented in all were all held originally by Liberals.

THOSE ELECTED

The Nationalist elected in 1939 were: Chaboussier, Jean, Liberal; Lacombe, elected as an Independent; Lacombe, elected as a Nationalist; and Lacombe, elected as a Nationalist.

The Independent elected in 1939 was Camille Houde, chosen to represent Montreal-St. Marie at a time when he was mayor of Montreal. Although the seat has remained technically occupied since, Premier W. L. Patterson had a majority of six over Mrs. Gladys Strum, C.C.F. candidate in the Saskatchewan general election June 15, will be conducted at Arcola July 4. It was announced last night. Judge J. H. McFadden of the district court will be in charge of the recount which was requested by the C.C.F.

CHERBOURG, June 25.—(AP)—German captured by American forces in France from D-Day, June 6, to Tuesday night totalled 28,849. It was disclosed officially yesterday, and others still are being brought in. The biggest day's haul was June 16, when 9,281 were captured. Tuesday's figure was 8,392.

An anti-aircraft shell burst in mid-air, beneath the robot projectile as it whizzed across Southern England, they said. The blast caused the buzz bomb to turn around and it was last seen headed back towards France.

Soviet Troops Only 35 Miles Outside Minsk

Plots, which is only 35 miles from the pre-war Polish frontier. The broadcast said repeated Russian efforts to take the town of Polesie, at the upper end of the White Russian front, had failed.

The Germans were reported to have been in the south of the Orda, abandoning their position even before they were attacked. The Red Army appeared to be taking advantage of improved weather to strike in force at the German, front and rear.

TANK ENGAGEMENTS

A number of tank engagements were reported going on between the Orda and Odon this morning, with the British containing all counter-thrusts and edging forward within striking distance of the Germans.

On the other prong of the assault arc being clamped against Caen, Canadian troops were sustaining the German anchor base in struggles to the north and northeast.

In line with the bridgehead report of reinforcements moving up from aerial porters, the Germans were shifting troops from a major scale from eastern France and Germany itself for an expected effort to smash the Allied foothold in France.

"The Germans are making a desperate attempt to move up infantry by daylight, but they are being slaughtered by the Royal Air Force," a field report said.

"Extensive German troop movement from the east toward Normandy have been sighted by Allied reconnaissance planes for the first time since the start of the invasion 25 days ago," headquarters spokesmen disclosed.

The heavy troop movements were interpreted as an indication that the German high command at last has decided that the Normandy invasion represents the main invasion effort.

Timidity was believed to have delayed reinforcing beyond the present strength of 15-odd divisions in the Normandy area because of the possibility that the Allies may strike elsewhere in even greater strength. However, the loss of at least 80,000 killed, wounded or captured so far in the Normandy campaign probably forced the German hand.

TEST OF STRENGTH
Twin British offensives southwest and north of Caen, German strongholds held against the main Cherbourg-Paris railway and highway, apparently resulted in a temporary halt while Allied and German tanks slugged it out in a test of strength.

Front reports said the British at one point had penetrated to within two miles north of Caen and at another to within less than two miles of the Orre river nearly due south of the city, but the lines were swinging to and fro in savage fighting and it was not known whether these advance positions were maintained.

Canadian troops, pushed against Caen from the north, were steadily outflanking the German line in that quarter of the tightening arc. British United Another spokesman from the 1st Army struck west from Bobruisk, captured Stari Dorogi, 38 miles away, and plunged on toward the Baranovich Gap, 75 miles southwest of Minsk and 220 miles east of Warsaw.

On the northeastern approaches to Minsk, Gen. Ivan D. Cherniakhovsky's 3rd White Russian Army presumably entered Bobruisk, laid enemy strongholds on the Moscow-Warsaw highway before the White Russian capital, or by passed it in driving to within 40 miles of Minsk itself.

SCENES OF CARNAGE
The advance probably carried scenes of carnage on either side of the Moscow-Warsaw highway between Orsha and Bobruisk.

At one point a German army regiment escaping from Orsha fled over past logs when Cherniakhovsky's tanks and Tommy gunners lay in ambush. When Soviet correspondents and generals reached the spot, they found an inextinguishable mass of dead men, carts, horses, rifles, guns, trucks armored clashes were going on in the area of La Bujide, three miles north of Caen.

In that sector British and Canadian forces generally held the initiative although the Germans were throwing counter punches at some places north and northeast of Caen.

Engineers were revealed to have turned in "encouraging" reports about the condition of the Cherbourg harbor, suggesting that it may be in operation sooner than some quarters had expected.

The BBC said British guns fired more than 10,000 shells in four hours this morning to break up what appeared to be a major German counter-attack in the Odon sector below Caen.

Front dispatches reported the thunderous bombardment by land and air of the German reinforcements pressing to the Orda-Oron corridor below Caen, where the British had beaten off all assaults by 150 Nazi tanks in the most furious armored battle of the invasion.

Coincident with the arrival of field dispatches which said the British were "laughing" at the Orda and Odon, coastal observers reported grand-scale air activity over the channel. The Allies appeared to be taking advantage of improved weather to strike in force at the German, front and rear.

in the armed forces of the First Great War or present war, are exempted from the act.

The amendment restricts the application of restrictions imposed by previous laws to those now in the armed forces.

The result of the amendment is that it will apply only to the Japanese.

TO CONTINUE STUDY

The amendment was still under discussion when the committee adjourned and will receive further consideration at a meeting of the committee Thursday.

Senator A. J. Macdonald, proposing introduction of the transferable vote, referred to the recent Saskatchewan election in which 83 per cent of the members had been elected.

"The same thing might easily happen in the next federal election," he said.

Senator John T. Haig, acting Progressive Conservative leader, supported Senator Ainslie's proposal for introduction of the transferable vote which, he said, had operated satisfactorily in Manitoba since 1920.

"We might as well look at it as it can be," he said. "The Liberal and Progressive Conservatives believe in free enterprise. That idea is being challenged and it will be up to the issue is decided. I don't know how you can get a decision 40 per cent of the people can elect."

SENATOR DISAGREES

Senator A. J. Macdonald (L.-Manitoba) disagreed with Senator Haig that the transferable vote necessarily gave true representation.

Senator J. H. King, government leader, speaking in the committee, said the government's decision to introduce the transferable vote was a security measure. Had they remained in British Columbia they would not have had a vote.

Health Service

By WILLIAM BRADY, M.D.
WHAT NO SPOTS?
NO EXPOSURE!

A reader sends a page clipped from an aircraft company's health service, as the "monthly message on health by the company's medical department."

The heading reads: "THE SUMMER COLD... will joy then the medical department informs us that colds during the summer are no different from those from the winter variety, and offers help here that will be welcome to a busy summer camp." Then follows seven hints which follow the well-known pattern of such advice to the public by doctors or health authorities who are obviously very and not quite certain of what they are talking about. For instance:

"I don't believe you are more immune to colds in summer than in winter..."

I picked up my ears—and no cracks, please—at that and reached for paper and typewriter, eager for the article that here, at last, shucks, my delight was short-lived, for close on the heels of that scientific suggestion followed the old bromine business:

"Your resistance depends on your health, not on the season."

The medical department may or should have some conception of the meaning of immunity to the diseases that masquerade as colds (for the first and most considerable stage of such diseases is diphtheria, epidemic meningitis, measles, whether the infectiousness is spread indiscriminately as a summer, winter, slight, common, nasty, little or bad, "cold," but be it that the company's medical department cannot define what "resistance" means, if it means anything different from immunity in the remarkable remark I quote:

"I must quote one more hint which (outside of the collection of such as far as my collection of such compositions of medical or health authorities shows."

"Avoid exposure to those having colds. The cold-carrying virus is carried in minute droplets emitted when a person has a cold, sneezes, coughs or speaks."

I am delighted to find the aircraft company's medical department mentioning conversational spray as something to avoid. Section will you find any mention of that in the advice given by health or medical authorities on how to prevent common respiratory infections? Among the lowest class open-face coughing and sneezing is the way such infections are spread. Among the wisest class—people who consider themselves intelligent—the chief method of infection is via conversational spray, in my opinion.

McKenney On Bridge

By WILLIAM MCKENNEY

At the Philadelphia Master Point tournament I had the pleasure of playing a few hands of bridge with Maj. Benjamin M. Goldner, vice president of the American Contract Bridge League. The major and I both like to do a lot of holding, and we followed this principle on today's hand. But once given the opportunity, the major certainly got every possible trick out of his hand.

He won the opening spade lead with the ace, cashed the ace of clubs and ruffed a small club. The king of spades was cashed, a small club being discarded, and a small spade ruffed. Another club was ruffed in dummy, the queen of hearts was led, East covered and Goldner won with the ace, then ruffed the last club. Now the jack of hearts was led, and when East's ten-pot fell, the major led dummy's king of hearts. East covered with the nine, which gave him ten tricks.

At this point he graciously conceded the last three tricks.

He's from one of those over-age destroyers."

Six Possession Orders Given For Property

Six applications for orders of possession of house property in Edmonton were granted in supreme court chambers Thursday by Mr. Justice T. M. Tweedie, chamber judge. The period given to tenants to vacate ranged from 17 days to 75 days, in two of the orders the tenant had consented to leave on specified dates.

One applicant who requested immediate possession was led by Mr. Justice Tweedie that the husband was on war and that the finding of a court was extremely difficult. He said there "has to be some tolerance in the housing situation."

Counsel for the tenant in this case expressed the opinion that a three-month adjournment of the case would be reasonable. Mr. Justice Tweedie was of the opinion that this was a long time, and ordered the tenant to give up possession at noon on July 31.

SETS DATES

One tenant was given until Aug. 31, and another until Sept. 15, to find premises in which to give up possession on July 15.

In the cases in which the tenants consented to leave the premises orders for possession were made for the afternoon of Aug. 3 and Aug. 10.

Senators Cite Need For New History Books

OTTAWA, June 29. (CP)—History books used in Canadian schools should be new, senators said today in a series of historical deductions of any importance.

Senators said that "if of account of whatever origin, reasons to be proud of the great events that took place in this country during the past four centuries."

Senator A. David said in a radio address last night.

Speaking over the national network of the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation in support of his proposal for a uniform history book, Senator David said that "if of account of differences of language, religion and national origin, the only so often spoken of in Canada is improbable, we can establish something which, though quite different from unity, is greatly to be desired, namely a beautiful and comprehensive 'fraternity'."

COVER EVERY PHASE

Speaking before Senator David on the broadcast suggested by a Canadian program committee of the History Club of Montreal, Senator John T. Hais said that in the history book of the future "we want to give prominence to every phase of the story of our nation from its discovery by Jacques Cartier to the present day."

Senator David said he believed that "it is time for a complete change in the teaching of this kind of material, and that 'Canadian patriotism' adding that 'the way it has been taught in the past has created too many chauvinists, too much friction and quarrels'."

The proposed Canadian textbook would be prepared by historians of all provinces, well learned in their subject, and known for their impartiality. This safeguard would, he thought, constitute sufficient guarantee that the book would not and could not become a medium of political propaganda.

Senators said that "if of account of differences of language, religion and national origin, the only so often spoken of in Canada is improbable, we can establish something which, though quite different from unity, is greatly to be desired, namely a beautiful and comprehensive 'fraternity'."

Revision Is Urged

Criminal Code Amendments Get Approval of Commons

OTTAWA, June 28.—(CP)—Members of the Commons several of them lawyers, urged yesterday that the Criminal Code be amended to eliminate the provision under which persons guilty of stealing from the mails may be sentenced to life imprisonment.

Justice Minister St. Laurent, sponsor of a bill amending the Code, said that armed robberies of the mails still warrant the punishment of life imprisonment.

He noted that the amending bill eliminated the provision under which the minimum term of imprisonment for theft from the mails was three years.

GIVEN THIRD READING

The house gave third reading to the bill which in addition to removing the three-year minimum sentence for mail theft, also increased the maximum penalty for knowingly delivering defective stores to the armed forces. The maximum prison term was increased from two to seven years and the fine from $500 to $50,000.

Provided for the hearing of appeals from summary convictions in Quebec province by the Superior court instead of the Court of King's Bench, crown side. This would permit more expeditious disposal of appeals.

Following third reading of the bill, the house turned to discussion of 1944-45 estimates.

PROTESTS DEATH PENALTY

J. G. Diefenbaker (P.C., Lake Centre) who suggested that a committee be established to bring the code up to date, said that the same had been horrified at death sentences passed on young persons convicted of murder. The mandatory sentence of death for murder should be revised.

Mr. St. Laurent said there might be cause for revision of the mandatory provision to a limited degree, as had been done in the United Kingdom. But as long as capital punishment remained, it should not be left to the discretion of the judge in some cases and not in others.

The minister agreed that the matter was one which might be examined by a committee. He would recommend the establishment of such a committee to examine the code and make suggestions to parliament if it were more propitious.

OTHER SUGGESTIONS

Dealing with other suggestions made during the debate, Mr. St. Laurent said:

1. The suggested committee should consider means of enlarging the jurisdiction of appeal to the supreme court of Canada in criminal cases.

2. All Canadians wished to see the penal system directed to a purpose of reform as well as punishment. But to carry out recommendations of a parliamentary commission report made before the war called for considerable capital expenditures.

3. He believed that considerable convenience to defence counsel would be caused if the system of holding a man in the common jail after being sentenced to a penitentiary term was changed. A prisoner usually is held in jail 30 days pending appeal.

CHECK ON JUDGES

4. It had been suggested there were too many high court judges in Quebec province, but a check would show that the per capita cost of judges in Quebec was low in comparison with other provinces. The proposed cuts aimed at eliminating the three-year minimum prison term had been suggested following consultation with post office department officials.

Stanley Knowles (C.C.F., Winnipeg North Centre) said the bill provided for increased penalties. One section increased from two to seven years the term of imprisonment which might be given for selling defective stores to the armed forces. The fine which might be levied was raised from $5,000 to $50,000.

But, said Mr. Knowles, the postal clerk might be given life imprisonment for stealing a postage stamp. Mr. Diefenbaker said the entire code should be examined by a committee and brought up to date.

Measures Taken

To Curb Juvenile Crime Inadequate

VICTORIA, June 28.—(CP)—Measures now being taken to control juvenile delinquency in Canada are "totally inadequate," Brig. Gen. D. C. Draper, Toronto chief constable, told the Chief Constables Association of Canada in convention here yesterday.

War conditions had aggravated the problem of juvenile crime in Canada, but contributory factors were improper motion pictures, bad magazines and liquor obtained by minors, he said.

Canadian homes, schools, churches and social organizations must take steps to solve this problem before it is too late, Chief Draper said. He advocated the inclusion of Bible study in schools, extensive physical training programs and other recreational facilities for youth and preventive measures.

Plan Job Survey

OTTAWA, June 28.—(CP)—Labor Minister Mitchell last night announced plans to conduct a post-war employment survey among plants with 500 or more employees. Industry generally would be covered in the survey, but construction, government offices, defence establishments, crown companies and hospitals would be excluded. Surveys among smaller firms would be undertaken later.

Radio Report To Be Drafted By Committee

OTTAWA, June 28.—(CP)—The Commons radio committee yesterday wound up public hearings and prepared to meet in camera next week to draft its report to parliament.

Chairman Dr. J. J. McCann (L., Redford, South) told committee members that among important recommendations would be the present system of a part-time Canadian Broadcasting Corporation whether it should be succeeded by a full-time salaried chairman in charge of policy and a general manager in charge of administration.

FILLED BY FRIGON

At present Dr. Augustin Frigon, assistant general manager, is filling the general manager's post which has included responsibility for both policy and administration.

Dr. Frigon announced that part of the $100,000 reserve fund of the CBC should be used for establishing an experimental frequency modulation station. He said after the session the station would be set up in Montreal where previous experiments had been conducted.

M. J. Coldwell, C.C.F. leader, said that the body should consider a relatively small group of persons.

Dr. Augustin Frigon, acting general manager of the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation said the CBC did not encourage control of press and radio by small groups.

Dr. Frigon said he had been told that Mr. Thompson was buying up papers because he knew he could not extend his activities in the radio field.
